Would not require tax rate hike

$10 million city budget projected

By Lynne Locke

The Upland Citv Council is considering a $10 million budget, an increase of $1.4 million from the budget approved for the 1976-77 year.

The tentative budget, totaling $10,036,914, reflects a "compromise between needed programs, or levels of service, and the ability of the city to fill those needs," according to City Manager Lee Travers, who noted the budget is basically balanced and does not require an increase in the city tax rate.

Some $222,000 of the $1.4 million increase will go for a five per cent increase in employe salaries. The council is expected to approve the five per cent salary increase for fire, police and miscellaneous employes at the June 6 council meeting although employe groups have not agreed to the figure.

Representatives of the employe groups have asked for higher raised to meet the increase in the cost of living as well some benefit increases.

Major features of the budget include activation of the city's third fire station, addition of 2½ positions in the Planning Department, addition of one police patrol unit and three officers, addition of a park foreman, and reorganization of the Engineering Department.

The city hopes to receive federal funds for construction of the third fire station, but construction funds are included in the budget in case the federal funding is not approved.

Opening the third station will require nine additional fire fighters as well as furnishings and small equipment. The city already owns the fire engine which would be assigned to the new station.

Addition of 2½ employes to the Planning Department will provide "sufficient staff to handle the increased workload, enable to the city to do more in-house studies, and develop a needed data base and update the general plan," according to Traver's report.

Addition of a police patrol unit and three officers is slated for Jan. 1, 1978 in order to provide "a necessary level of service" for Upland's growing population.

The city staff has proposed the addition of a park foreman "late in the fiscal year" to assist in handling additional work generated by the expansion of Upland's park facilities.

Reorganization of the Engineering Department will result in the elmination of two engineering employes and the addition of a clerk typist. The work previously done by the engineering employes will be contracted from private consultants, according to budget report.

Travers noted that many budget items have increased in cost much more rapidly than city revenues, with liability insurance, especially, rising 250-400 per cent.

Employe retirement costs and medical insurance premiums are also rising faster than revenues with other rising costs for utilities, postage, fuel and oil.

Revenues from property taxes are expected to rise some 12.5 per cent higher than the 1976-77 year due to increases in the assessed valuation.

Other revenue increases during the 1977-78 year will result from higher fees (which became effective during the present fiscal year) for water, and engineering and planning functions.

The 1977-78 budget proposes increases in dog license rates and sewer rental charges. Neither increase has been approved.

The largest portion of the budget is public safety (Fire, police, and animal control) with $2.9 million — 28.6 per cent of the total budget.

General government services are budgeted at $1.8 million for 18.23 per cent of the budget, with water operations at $1.6 million or 16 per cent of the budget.

Other budget items include general services and engineering with $1.4 million for 14.6 per cent of the budget, and capital outlay and improvements with $1 million for 10.6 per cent.

Smaller budget amounts are proposed for parks and recreation, 6 per cent of the total budget; library, 4 per cent; and water improvements, 1.5 per cent.

The council considered the proposed budget in public meetings this week and is expected to approve the budget and set the official tax rate at the June 6 or June 20 council meeting.

Local Red Cross celebration set

The American National Red Cross, San Bernardino County chapter will celebrate 10 years of service as the nation's largest geographical chapter 7:30 p.m. June 4 at Norton Air Force Base.

Guest speaker for the dinner meeting will be Major General Clyde H. Mitchell.

Tax hike on Heights ballot

Residents of San Antonio Heights will be among county voters who decide Tuesday whether their property taxes should be increased to pay for fire protection by the California Department of Forestry.

Increased costs for fire protection were cited by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors in calling the election for County Service Area 38, Improvement Zone G.

The measure would increase the district tax rate by 20 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. The present rate is a low 18.2 cents compared to a county average of 90 cents for fire protection.

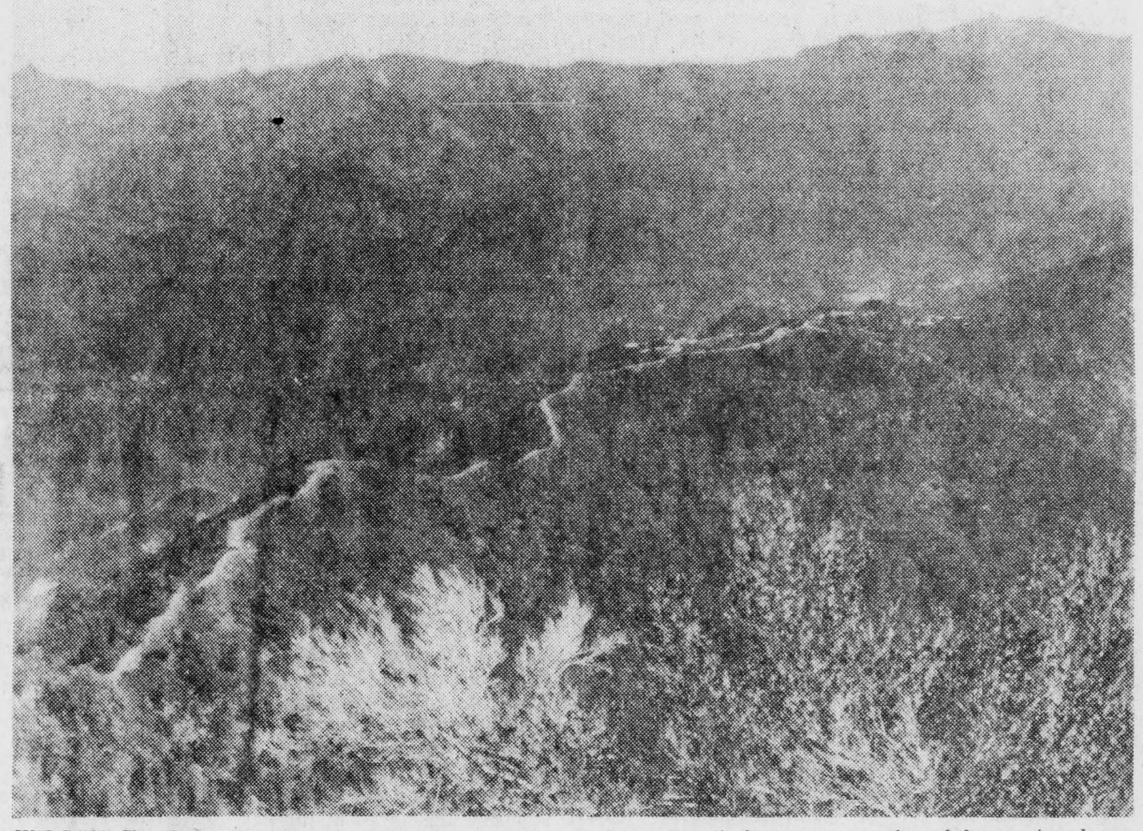

If the full 20 cents were levied, the increase would cost the owner of a $50,000 home an additional $21.50 per year in property taxes.

Fire officials expect only 13 cents of the 20 - cent override would be levied the first year and estimate it would be four years before the full 20 cents is levied.

Without the tax increase, rescue and fire protection would be "seriously affected" and fire insurance rates would increase.

Failure of the measure would result in closing three fire stations, and eliminate purchase of replacement fire, medical, and communications equipment, according to public relations officer Ed Hedding.

The measure is proposition A on the special May 31 ballot.

WILSON TO BALDY — A.A. Michalson and crews of scientists worked nearly seven years to determine the speed of light by bouncing a beam of light from Mt. Wilson (where this photograph was taken) to Mt. Baldy (snow-capped peak at right) and back. Their work resulted in the most accurate finding ever produced from visual experiments. Because of the rough terrain the distance between the two peaks was measured on a baseline through the San Gabriel - Pomona Valley. (Photo by Don Ham)

Historical experiment all but forgotten locally

The speed of light and the Pomona Valley

By Lynne Locke

Mt. Baldy and the Pomona Valley foothills were part of an historic experiment which determined the speed of light. By now the experiment, conducted in the 1920s by the first American to receive the Nobel prize in physics, is all but forgotten locally.

A. A. Michalson and crews of scientists and engineers worked nearly 7 years to determine the speed of light. Their work resulted in the most accurate finding ever produced from visual experiments.

The experiment produced a speed-of-light figure of 299,798 kilometers per second, only 4 kilometers per second higher than presently accepted measurements.

And Michalson's experiments were completed before the development of such modern tools as highly reflecting mirrors and laser light sources.

But the correct reading was only the final stage in a long process, which began when Michalson was invited in the early 1920s to work on the speed of light at the Mt. Wilson facilities.

Michalson determined to set up his speed of light experiment from Mt. Wilson to Mt. San Antonio (as Mt. Baldy was then named), some 23 miles to the east.

He planned to bounce a beam of light from Mt. Wilson to Mt. Baldy and back. The time it took the light to cover the distance would reveal the speed of light.

Forest fires, haze, heat, orange groves, houses, and human error all combined to stretch the simple experiment to six years, and Michalson never thought the results were quite exact enough for his own high standards.

While Michalson was assembling — and sometimes inventing — the equipment for his experiment, a United States Coast and Geodetic Survey team was accurately measuring distance from Mt. Wilson to Mt. Baldy.

Michalson had decided not to use the Los Angeles base line, which has been measured in 1888-89, because of the possibility the length had been changed by earthquakes.

The government team could not measure the distance from Mt. Wilson to Mt. Baldy directly because of the rugged, mountainous terrain in between, so the distance was measured on a baseline through the San Gabriel and Pomona valley foothills eight miles south of the line of the mountains.

Two-thirds of the so-called Pasadena baseline was easy to measure because it ran in cleared areas beside roads, but the remaining third passed over farms, orchards, brush lands, and gullys.

The government team built concrete towers 20 feet or taller to run the measuring tapes above steep ravines and orange groves. In one area, only ¾ of a mile long, the team encountered a cattle stall, pig pen, chicken yard, citrus nursery, a pump house, and a home.

Towers to hold the raised lines avoided all the obstructions except the house. Luckily the house had windows right in line so the measuring tapes were run through the house and the measuring completed, all without waking the baby, according to one source.

The measuring task was made easier by the development of flexible tapes of invar, a metal alloy which doesn't change length when warm or cool.

Previously surveyors had used steel bars carried in long boxes of ice to ensure that the measuring rod was a certain temperature — and, therefore, a known length.

The base line (which is not the same as the present Base Line Road) was measured in 43 sections with zigzags which had to be considered in the calculations.

But in the end the baseline measurement was estimated to be accurate within ⅛ of an inch — for a distance of more than 21 miles.

To perform the actual experiment, Michalson set up a swiftly revolving mirror at Mt. Wilson and a stationary mirror to send the light back from a spur ridge at Mt. Baldy.

During the six years of taking experimental readings, he used five different rotating mirrors — three of glass and two of steel — in an attempt to obtain the most accurate measurement of the speed of light.

Michalson and his assistants had difficulty taking accurate measurements because of the smoke from forest fires, and the natural obstruction from haze and atmosphere.

Just before and after sunset was finally determined to be the best time to take the measurements. The mirrors and eyepiece were adjusted just before sunset when the station at Mt. Baldy was "well illuminated."

The experimental light itself was flashed during the hour after sunset when the steadiness and sharpness of the return image was so distinct that it could be measured to a hundredth of a millimeter.

One account noted the return light was observed in the eyepiece as a "brilliant starlight image."

Michalson was so pleased with the result of the Mt. Wilson to Mt. Baldy experiment that he decided to try the experiment over a longer distance — 82 miles from Mt. Wilson to Mt. San Jacinto.

The distance turned out to be too far for accurate readings, so Michalson tried again from Mt. Wilson to Santiago Peak, a distance of 50 miles.

That experiment also failed because of the presence of dust and smoke at "an exceptionally high level," so Michalson abandoned his attempts to refine the outdoor results obtained at Mt. Baldy.

He later tried to set up the experiment in a half-mile vacuum pipe at Irvine Ranch, but problems of heat, vibration from passing trains, and human error as well as his own death kept the experiment from final success.

Michalson's experiment across the mountains above the San Gabriel and Pomona valleys still stands as the most accurate "optical" determination of the speed of light.

And the man himself is remembered in the scientific world for demonstrating "that exact measurement is the basis on which exact science must always rest."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Additional information on Michalson's speed of light experiment is available in the local history collection of the Upland Public Library.

Property values up

Property values are up in most areas of the county, and so are assessed values, according to County Assessor Robert J. Herbin. Because assessments must be in proportion to market values, increases in the market trigger increases in the assessed valued. A sampling of increases in the several areas of reappraisal indicate that the changes ranged 15-70 per cent in Upland, Ontario and Montclair and 10-50 per cent in Chino.

"The final impact on the tax bill will be determined by the cities, special districts, and other taxing agencies, when they set their budgets, and not by the assessor," he said. "Tax rates are a function of the assessed value and the budgets, not the other way. If a district's assessed values rises more than the budget, then the tax rate must go down. Holding the line does not mean keeping the same tax rate, it means controlling the spending." Herbin will be sending notices in June to those owners whose values have changed since last year.

Stars and Stripes Gala

Los Angeles City Attorney Burt Pines will be featured speaker at the ninth annual Stars and Stripes Gala, sponsored by the West End Democratic Club, 7:30 p.m. June 3 at Griswold's Pavilion. West End attorney Beverly Quinn is coordinating the event. For reservations call 984-7618.

Research contract

Los Padrinos of San Bernardino County has been awarded a research contract to study "Chicano community needs and priorities." Community forums are planned for June and July in Chino, Colton and Barstow as well as a regional forum in San Bernardino to gain public input on the topic. A countywide consilio (council) of Chicano community leaders will be formed to assist in the project. Juan Torres and Kirk Whisler will direct the project with James Heath and Elva Kochalis as researchers. For information or to volunteer assistance contact the staff at 990 S. Your Head Hangs Heavy in a Whiplash Accident

By Dr. W.P. Helzer, D.C.

Rear-end auto collisions are the most frequent cause of cervical spine injuries.

DR. HELZER

Approximately 85% of the cervical disorders we have studied were the result of auto crashes.

Only 15 per cent of these crash injuries resulted from head-on or side collisions.

The amount of damage to the crashing auto is not a reliable indicator of the damage to the passengers. Most cervical disorders start with sprains, and most sprains are caused by the action of the 8 to 12 pound human head as it snaps backward during a rear-end crash.

This head snapping action can produce an impressive variety of muscle tears, ligament stretching and damage to the backbone, particularly the fourth, fifth, and sixth vertebrae.

The position of the head and neck at the time the force is applied determines to some extent the site of the injury.

The structures which are relaxed may receive less injury than those which are taut or on stretch.

Thus, injury in a side collision may be to the side of the neck opposite the impact. Side collisions cause a sudden lateral bending and rotation of the neck toward the side of the impact, and then to the opposite side.

Sprained or torn ligaments and capsules result in a traumatic inflammatory reaction with minute hemorrhages and continued, even prolonged, blood leakage. The inflammation may persist for months or even years.

The eventual outcome is a reparative response, and an injury results most often in scarring which is the usual residual of tissue damage.

Tissue repair in the cervical area is slow, probably because of the meager blood supply. Under ideal circumstances, the usual healing time is six to eight weeks after injury.

The scar tissue which forms is less elastic than normal tissue, which means there may be continued neck stiffness.

Board lifts moratorium on building permits

By PETER WONG

County supervisors decided Monday how 3,458 building permits for home construction in Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda will be issued under the West End regional growth plan, lifting a three-week moratorium on such permits.

The supervisors' action, taken after three hours of debate, will probably speed up construction activity in the unincorporated tri-communities through mid-1978, when the regional growth plan will expire — and more importantly, when guarantees of sewage treatment capacity will be used up.

It practically insures a scramble by builders to obtain an estimated 1,350 building permits for which no particular priority will be assigned.

Developers who plan to build homes on some 4,350 lots in subdivisions whose final designs haven't been completed are expected to finish their work as fast as they can so they can obtain the limited number of building permits.

The other 2,000 or so permits will probably be issued to builders who have completed their final subdivision designs and have formally recorded their plans.

County Planning Director Kenneth C. Topping told the supervisors that such construction is expected to place further burdens on public services other than sewage treatment capacity and that his department will present a growth plan for the tri-communities as scheduled June 20.

On a split vote, the supervisors upheld Topping in refusing to lift a moratorium for the filing of plans for apartments, mobile home parks and other large-scale housing projects in the tri-communities.

Under the regional growth plan agreed to by the supervisors and three West End cities (Ontario, Upland and Montclair) last week, sewage flows from additional homes into the already overloaded treatment plant in south Ontario will be limited until the plant itself can be expanded in 1980 or 1981.

Meanwhile, the extra sewage will most likely be diverted into a line normally used for nonreclaimable industrial waste.

The plan allows sewage flows from the equivalent of an additional 3,458 homes in the tri-communities.

Before building permits can be issued by the county or any of the three cities for most construction projects, the Chino Basin Municipal Water District must certify it can handle sewage generated from new development.

The supervisors decided upon the following procedure for issuance of building permits for homes in the tri-communities:

—For holders of 700 building permits already issued in the tri-communities, immediate certification of sewage treatment capacity from the Chino Basin Municipal Water District will be sought. (The 700 permits are considered part of the tri-communities' share of 3,458 under the regional growth plan.)

—For builders who have completed their final subdivision designs and have recorded their plans, they have 45 days to apply for building permits and seek certification of sewage treatment capacity, or else they will lose their priority for building permits.

—For builders who are completing their final subdivision designs, including work on streets, sewer and water systems, but haven't formally recorded their plans, they will have 60 days to apply for building permits and record the plans.

"Our concern is that those who have put the most into their projects be given first priority," Dianne Guzman, principal planner in the county planning department, said.

Department officials and representatives of the building industry agreed upon the first two points quickly. However, lengthy debate took place as to how much of a risk builders should be asked to take in rushing to complete subdivision plans.

Jim Smirl, president of the Baldy View chapter of the Building Industry Association of California, said builders should be treated on a first-come, first-served basis as they complete their subdivision plans and apply for building permits.

The county planning department had sought to assign each project a priority that would have been determined by the stage of completion of the final subdivision design.

The final proposal adopted by the supervisors comes closer to the building industry position.

Panel backs pay raise for county supervisors

County supervisors should be paid well for doing a good job, the chairman of the grand jury committee which has recommended an increase of at least 8 per cent in supervisors' salaries told supervisors Monday.

The supervisors didn't act on the proposed pay increase, however, which would boost their salaries to nearly $25,000. A supervisor's current salary is $22,692, and additional fees raise that to $22,998.

"We feel this is a county which can be proud of the kind of achievements which have been made in county government — and we believe we should continue to encourage a salary that is commensurate with the general concept of what management should be paid," George H. Armacost, chairman of the grand jury committee, said.

"We feel it's unrealistic to think there's no relationship between the quality of service which we get in the county and the salaries which are paid (to supervisors and county employes)."

Armacost, former president of the University of Redlands, was asked by the supervisors to explain the committee's recommendation, the supervisors being mindful of the public reaction last year which forced them to abandon a 40 per cent pay increase they had voted themselves.

(The supervisors eventually raised their salaries by only 5 per cent, from $21,612 to $22,692.)

After a grand jury study of the supervisors' responsibilities and required qualifications, plus a survey ot supervisors' salaries in five Southern California counties to which San Bernardino County compares its employe salaries, the committee decided to recommend an increase of at least 8 per cent, Armacost said.

This would provide what Armacost called "a satisfactory base" of $24,844 and place the supervisors' salaries "into what we consider a normal range at the present time" — $25,000 to $35,000.

"Our report probably was considerably different than had we made it last July," when the supervisors initially increased their salaries from $21,612 to $30,178, Armacost said.

The difference, he said, was "that we have developed a greater appreciation for what kind of abilities, what kind of competence is required to do a good job."

Armacost said the supervisors' combined salaries would probably amount to less than the pay of the president of a corporation whose sales total $250 million — the size of the county budget.

"I will say this ... the private sector is aware of our capabilities. I've been offered half again as much salary as I make right here, but I chose to run for this office," Supervisor James L. Mayfield said.

A woman in the audience said, "Take it, take it."

A citizens' committee had recommended to this year's grand jury that another citizens' panel be appointed to review supervisors' salaries.

However, because of a ruling from the district attorney's office — and because the grand jury itself is empowered to review the salaries of elected county officials — the grand jury assigned the review instead to one of its own committees.

"I'm appreciative there is somebody else apart from the board of supervisors who takes a look at it (supervisors' salaries) and makes a recommendation," Supervisor Dennis L. Hansberger of Yucaipa said.

Hansberger noted that grand jury members are nominated by superior court judges and selected by lottery, whereas members of a special citizens' committee would probably have been appointed by the supervisors themselves.

Supervisors' Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino said the proposed procedure by the grand jury was "more democratic" in comparison with the pay increase for members of Congress and top government officials authorized earlier this year.

Supervisor Joseph Kamansky of Upland said that six months after his appointment to the board, he has learned that supervisors and other county officials "stand pretty high in the state."

"I would say they should all be patted on the back, but not myself (because of short tenure) .... I think they've done a good job in the past in representing San Bernardino County," Kamansky said.

SCENIC BACKDROP — The local mountains, covered by a late spring snow, are a backdrop for carpenter Archie Cheek as he works at a residential construction site in Alta Loma. The snow on the mountains may not last long, though, as temperatures pushed up into the 50s in the mountains and the 70s in the valley last week.

Scholarship applications accepted

Applications from qualified law students are now being accepted by the San Bernardino County Bar Association and the Lawyer's Wives of San Bernardino County for the John Lewis King Memorial Scholarship and the Lawyers' Wives of San Bernardino County Scholarship.

These scholarships are made possible by donations to the association in memory of the late John Lewis King and by the Lawyers' Wives of San Bernardino County.

The John Lewis King Memorial Scholarship has been established to provide two $1,000 scholarship awards principally to students who have substantial contact with San Bernardino County, and who are currently attending an accredited law school in California. The Lawyers' Wives of San Bernardino County have also established two separate $1,000 annual scholarship awards.

Interested applicants should write to the San Bernardino County Bar Association office, 364 N. Arrowhead Ave., San Bernardino, 92401. Deadline for applications is June 30, 1977.

Also, the Lawyers' Wives of San Bernardino has created an emergency loan fund for law students from San Bernardino County. Anyone interested in such a loan should write to Lawyers' Wives of San Bernardino County, Student Loan Fund, 2523 Windsor Drive, San Bernardino, 92404.

The final selection of the scholarship awards recipients will be based upon such factors as academic achievement, financial need, civil accomplishments and employment history. It is anticipated that the finalists will be personally interviewed by the scholarship committees. It should be emphasized that past history has disclosed that applicants who have completed at least one year of legal study have a far greater advantage in being selected as recipients of the awards.

The scholarship awards will be presented in September, according to Florentino Garza, chairman of the Bar Association Scholarship Committee and Mrs. Lynda Collier, president of Lawyers' Wives of San Bernardino County.

Summer day camp to open

The 20th annual summer day camp at Pomona Valley Christian Schools will open June 20 and continue on a weekly basis through Sept. 9, with swimming, archery, field trips and arts and crafts. Dr Dana Pankey, president of Pomona Valley Christian Schools announced.

The day camp program, for boys and girls from 5 through 12, is open to youngsters regardless of their school or church background. Youngsters may attend one week or all summer.

A summer highlight is an academic enrichment program from June 27 through July 27 for individual instruction in the fundamentals of math and reading. Special tutoring in these subjects is also available throughout the summer to youngsters needing additional assistance.

A day camp brochure is available in the school office at 845 E. Arrow Highway, Pomona, or may be obtained by phoning 624-1678. Registration applications are now being accepted.

Schools have toy drive going in Alta Loma

Persons wishing to donate old or unwanted toys to Santa Claus, Inc., may do so during this week at various Alta Loma schools.

Boxes will be located at Alta Loma Junior High, Carnelian, Jasper and Alta Loma elementary schools.

Representatives from Santa Claus, Inc., will pick up the toys and restore them to good condition and give them to needy children at Christmastime.

Center guides students

Forestry is the most popular single career field among 769 students surveyed at Upland High School, but it is a comparatively barren field in terms of job opportunities.

"Kids think being a forester is being outdoors and not having hard work to do," says Alan Chestnut, the school's work experience coordinator.

"Actually there is a lot of scientific work involved and you can be in the back country for weeks alone. It's hard to relate this to them (the students)."

He said job opportunities in forestry are few because there are only a few places of employment — the federal and state governments and lumber, paper and chemical companies.

Part of Chestnut's job in the Upland High career center is to steer students in the direction of good career prospects.

For students' use, the career center has filing cabinets filled with hundreds of documents about specific careers.

It also has career information filmstrips students can view. Speakers appear at the center to talk about fields ranging from the law to the fashion industry.

Chestnut recently issued results of this year's career planning inventory which shows forestry, as the top choice of 44 students, is the most popular career among students surveyed.

CAREER CENTER — Anna Lucero, an Upland High School senior who is interested in a medical career, views a career information filmstrip in the school's career center. The center is said to contain information about 50,000 careers.

Many of the other popular vocations, for example pilot, lawyer, veterinarian teacher and physician, are also difficult to enter.

Each surveyed student has received a computer printout that notes his top two career choices and, based on interests he indicated in survey answers, suggests others to consider.

"I never tell students they can't pursue a field that is crowded but I do tell them there's a lot of competition and they'll have to be tops," Chestnut said.

One field in which he said this is the case is veterinary work, the fourth most popular career field among the Upland High students who were surveyed this school year.

Flooded with applicants, the veterinary school at the University of California at Davis has recommended that potential students get some practical experience before entering.

According to Chestnut, such experience can discourage potential veterinarians.

Chestnut said he is not trying to pin unchangeable career choices on students before leave high school.

Committee oks purchase of freeway right-of-way

By PETER WONG

Legislation which would allow the state to buy critical sections of the right-of-way of the proposed Foothill Freeway extension was approved by the Assembly Transportation Committee.

The bill, intended to protect the freeway corridor from San Dimas to the Devore Freeway until the freeway can be built, passed the committee without dissent.

Without such legislation, freeway supporters feared, construction of homes in the right-of-way — from La Verne through Claremont, Upland and Alta Loma — would proceed, since local governments do not have the funds to buy remaining land.

The California Department of Transportation has estimated land acquisition costs at $1 million in the first year and $200,000 annually thereafter.

The bill directs the California Highway Commission and the California Department of Transportation to grant "high priority" for acquisition of land within the freeway corridor, particularly in cases "subject to hardship."

If the bill is passed by both houses of the state legislature and signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., "this means the state is going to start buying land for the freeway," Tony Malone, executive vice president of the Upland Chamber of Commerce, said.

Malone is administrator of the Foothill Freeway Association, the main lobbying group in support of the freeway.

The bill (AB 469), whose chief sponsor is Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, R-Covina, was amended so it would focus solely on the purchase of critical sections of land in the freeway right-of-way between San Dimas and the Devore Freeway.

"We want a bill the governor can sign, not a veto," Malone said.

The original version of Lancaster's bill would have required the state to protect the freeway corridor from San Dimas to San Bernardino and prepare the environmental and engineering studies necessary for freeway construction.

Furthermore, by focusing on the purchase of land in "hardship" cases, the state need not prepare environmental impact reports before purchase, Malone added. He estimated the cost of such reports on the freeway corridor from San Dimas to the Devore Freeway at $2 million.

The amendments were suggested by the chairman of the Assembly Transportation Committee, Walter Ingalls, D-Riverside, so the bill would have a stronger chance of obtaining Brown's signature.

The bill now goes to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, which must clear it before the full Assembly can vote on it. The area's two Assembly members, Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., and Terry Goggin, D-66th Dist., are committee members.

Malone said Ingalls believes that with the amendments, the bill will be passed by both the Assembly and Senate.

Meanwhile, Ingalls, Lancaster and McVittie plan to appear before the California Highway Commission in August, when it will consider the state highway construction program for 1978-84.

At that time, Malone said, they will push for inclusion of the Foothill Freeway extension in the state program.

Malone said the progress made by freeway supporters in the legislature should probably forestall any move by the California Department of Transportation and the California Highway Commission to delete the freeway from the state highway system.

Health Tips

Alcohol, pills don't mix

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

Many different kinds of medications prescribed for a variety of disorders should not be mixed with alcohol. Such a mixture can produce distressing and sometimes dangerous results. The amount of alcohol necessary to produce these side effects vary with each person and with the medication. Caution, therefore, is necessary.

A person who drinks alcohol when on certain medications to control high blood pressure may faint or feel faint. The same hazard is present for the person combining alcohol with nitroglycerine for heart pain. In either case, the interaction between the alcohol and the medicine has the effect of lowering blood pressure. If a person is being treated for a failing heart and has been prescribed strong diuretics and digitalis, alcohol will add to the fluid and potassium loss and thus further weaken the heart.

A person being given medication to control diabetes must be particularly cautious in the use of alcohol.

The instances in which alcohol when combined with otherwise safe medications can produce problems are almost limitless.

For example, certain antibiotics, an antimalarial drug or an antiparasitic medication will make a person feel acutely uncomfortable if the drug is combined with alcohol.

A medication prescribed for the prevention of convulsions and for some irregularities of heart rhythm is used up more rapidly when the patient drinks alcohol regularly; that means that the patient gets less benefit from the medication than he or she would otherwise.

Similarly, the effectiveness of medication commonly used to thin the blood (and thus help treat clotting) is reduced by alcohol.

On the other hand, in some cases, when a person takes aspirin plus alcohol, the combination may produce internal bleeding in which the clotting is impaired.

The same emotional problems — such as tension, anxiety, rage — that lead a person to consume large quantities of alcohol often tend to make him or her a user of tranquilizers, sleeping pills, antidepressants and other mood - altering drugs.

Chemically, alcohol is in the same category as these drugs and, accordingly, when they are used together their effect is doubled. A person may become so drowsy that judgment is impaired. It is not uncommon for a person to take a pill while drinking alcohol and then become so confused that he or she forgets whether or not the medication was taken. The dosage may be repeated several times; the result may be a fatal overdose.

One specific category of tranquilizers — the phenothiazines — has another adverse reaction when used in combmation with alcohol. The person experiences a serious drop in blood pressure — so pronounced that he or she may faint when trying to stand up.

In one instance, the uncomfortable reaction produced by taking alcohol with another drug is used to assist treatment. Antabuse is prescribed for alcoholic patients whose episodes of drinking usually start impulsively. If a patient takes Antabuse daily, he or she will become ill when drinking even a small amount of alcohol. Wanting to avoid the sickness helps the person learn to control the impulse to drink.

For your own safety and comfort, each time your doctor gives you a prescription for a medication that is new to you, ask specifically if it is safe for you to drink alcohol while on the medication. If you are being treated by more than one physician, ask each of them this additional question: Is this medicine safe in combination with other medications you are now taking?

You and Your Pet

Tips for traveling

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services
Norden Laboratories

When your family prepares for a vacation, the question may arise, what should we do with our dog or cat? If your answer is to take it along, the going will be much easier if your pet has been schooled to travel.

Several weeks before your trip, begin conditioning your pet to the smell of gasoline and vinyl. Let your pet explore the interior of your parked car while you sit inside. The next day repeat the procedure and this time take your pet for a short ride, and then a longer one. If your pet is consistently car sick after this gradual introduction, you may need to contact your veterinarian for a sedative to relax the animal.

On the whole, cats are not as avid car passengers as dogs, so be patient in your training. A cat frightened by the small of gas, engine noise or movement may never lose its fear of car travel.

Special care is needed whenever a pet is left alone in a car. Sun on the windshield can turn a car into an oven, and your pet could easily suffocate. If you must leave, try to park in the shade and leave the windows partially open — just enough for ventilation, but not wide enough for your pet to escape. Don't leash your dog to the window or tie him up inside the car, as it might easily hang itself.

On long trips, it's wise to take a supply of your pet's regular food, a jug of water, towels or clean rags and an extra leash. For summer travel, owners of large dogs sometimes line the floor in the back seat with damp towels for the pet to lie on.

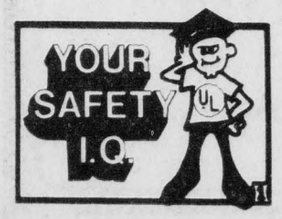

Traveling with a pet by bus, plane or other public transportation needs special planning, so call the company in advance of your trip. Transit companies usually have regulations regarding pet travel — including specifications for the carrying case. The best carriers for long distance travel have good ventilations, deep metal cups for food and water and dome-shaped roofs so crates and boxes cannot be piled on top.

Even if you travel only by car, your pet should be accustomed to confinement in a carrier. It is impractical to hold a pet, even a small one, on your lap for long periods. Also, it is not very safe. A frightened pet may jump out an open window or injure the driver and passengers during a sudden stop.

Condition your pet to its carrier gradually. Let your cat or dog inspect the open unit at home for several days. Then you can carry your pet around in the carrier, first in the house, then around the neighborhood and finally in the car.

If you want to travel outside the country, visit your veterinarian for a health certificate and possible rabies booster shot. Also contact the foreign embassy or consul official to find out about quarantine restrictions. If you'll be vacationing in a warm climate (inside or out of the United States) that might have mosquitoes, ask your veterinarian about heartworm medicine for your dog. When added to your dog's food, heartworm medication prevents the development of certain parasites that enter the dog's body with a bite of an infected mosquito. I'll discuss heartworms in more detail in a future column.

One last note about pet carriers: some owners protest that confinement prevents the pet from "enjoying the trip." I disagree. A nervous cat jumping back and forth from one seat to another, distracting the driver, is not enjoying the trip. Neither does the dog that suffers severe eye irritation from riding along a dusty city or country road with its head out the window.

1. Name the burning materials for which the following classifications of fire extinguishers are intended.
   Class A
   Class B
   Class C
2. An ungrounded power tool can be used safely outdoors.
   ☐ True ☐ False

ANSWERS

1. Class A—Wood, paper, cotton. Class B—Gasoline, grease, paraffin, flammable liquids. Class C—Electrical equipment. Be sure the extinguisher on hand matches the potential situation and that it bears the UL Listing Mark.
2. False. The electric supply cord of a power tool used outdoors should terminate in a 3-pin grounding plug, which should be connected to a 3-terminal receptacle. Be sure the ground terminal is really grounded — also that the tool bears the UL Listing Mark. Provided as a public safety service by Underwriters Laboratories

She's a meter reader

Lana Morano

Dogs bark, women greet her with a raised fist saying, "Right on," and she thinks meters are "ugly," but it's all part of her job and she says she likes it better than being in a "crampy office."

Lana Morano is a meter reader for Southern California Edison Company, Pomona, and is one of 25 women currently on the company payroll throughout the state in that position.

In a field traditionally dominated by men (there are approximately 320 male meter readers for the company in the state) she appears to have the respect of her fellow workers.

"For a woman to do what she does takes a lot of guts," another employe said. "There are lots of dogs in Pomona and she shows less fear of them than most of the men," he said.

You always hear about dogs bothering postmen," another meter reader said, "but we have to go into the backyards with those dogs."

"I like animals and I think they can sense this when I go into a yard," Morano said. "I think they can smell fear on a person and it makes them (the dogs) more aggressive."

But dogs or no dogs, what made her apply for a meter reading position anyway?

"The starting pay is great," she said. "And I had been working in a crampy office and was about to go nuts. I prefer this type of outdoor work."

Morano said she is often greeted by housewives who raise their fist and say, "Right on. Yours is the kind of job I want.

"If a person doesn't mind getting a few cuts and bruises, callouses and splinters (from gates) — it's not a dainty job — then it's great," she said.

Next to dogs, Morano claims that bushes are the biggest hazard. "People don't realize it's actually against the law to have bushes within four feet of the meter, but I don't blame them for wanting to cover the thing up. It's so ugly just sitting there on the wall."

She said many housewives come outside to talk with her when she is making rounds.

She believes they may feel more comfortable having a female meter reader coming into their backyards than a man.

A man stopped Morano just outside his house on the walkway one day and asked her, " Hey, how do you apply for a job? My wife needs to get out. She's bored at home."

She admits to being somewhat of a "Women's Libber."

"I certainly believe in equal pay for equal work, but I think men need liberating too. They've been tied to stereotypes the same as we have."

She said that she and her husband share equally with all the housework and cooking. "But of course, I help with the yard and outside work too," she said.

"I know some people think women should do the light work in the house and leave the heavier stuff for the men, but my husband is open minded about our relationship. Neither of us dominates the other."

However, she made it clear that when she has children, she'll stay home while they are little.

Morano is 22-years old and has been married for six months.

She said at first her father was upset about her entering what has commonly been a man's profession. "But now he's totally understanding about it. We seem to have much more in common. We have a different level of communication."

Morano credits her father and mother with helping her to get the job.

"Whether my father realizes it or not, some of the early training he gave me, like helping him work on cars, or at lea t watching him, were invaluable lessons," she said.

"Also, my mother worked out of the home some of the time and mom and dad shared work responsibilities. Mom liked to work outside more than in the house too."

She believes more and more women will join the work force doing outside work in the future.

A spokesman for Edison Company said that not all the women hired are able to stand up under the physical strain required of jobs like meter reading.

"I know it doesn't sound like a very physical job, but it is. You have to work in all weather, walk great distances and climb into all sorts of inconvenient places," he said.

"We keep hiring women but they don't seem to last very long," he said.

Morano said the only negative response she had gotten was when a man in a neighborhood asked a male meter reader, who was reading meters across the street to re - do his,because 'that woman did it yesterday and I don't trust her.'"

She said that particular man was an exception because most people have been super friendly.

She said many older housewives stop her to chit - chat and often end by saying, "I wish I had done something like you're doing in my lifetime. Good for you, honey."

Pop album reviews

Four new albums to listen to

By Mike Del Rey
Pop Music Critic

With 20 to 30 albums pouring in each week it's terribly difficult to decide just which albums to review. So in no particular order of selection Heart's second album "Little Queen," Neil Sedaka's "A Song," Mickey Thomas's debut album "As Long As You Love Me," and Cat Stevens "I Z I T S O," have become legal game.

Little Queen
Heart
JR 34799

The six-member Seattle-based rock group Heart is up to their bag of platinum tricks again, this time with the second album "Little Queen."

Their debut album, "Dreamboat Annie," was a tremendous success in both the United States and Canada earning platinum status in both countries. The title song "Dreamboat Annie," along with "Crazy On You" and "Magic Man" soared to international single success also.

If "Little Queen" is even remotely similar in record sales as it's debut album was, Heart could be on a non-stop ride to everywhere.

As was their debut album, "Little Queen" possesses the hard hitting, hard kicking rock and roll sound.

On side one is the most likely smash hit for Ann and Nancy Wilson, "Barracuda." Ann's hard screaming, yet woman soft voice is a big selling point on this tune. It's uplifting and exciting, and also features sensational use of lead guitar by Roger Fisher and Howard Leese.

Also on side one is the quiet, peaceful instrumental "Sylvan Song," that leads into "Dream Of The Archer." Still holding onto the mandolin from "Sylvan Song," "Dream Of The Archer" brings out Nancy Wilson on autoharp, vocals, acoustic and mandolin guitars, and Howard Leese on Moog base, Mellotron and vocals.

Side two has the title cut "Little Queen," little more than a title cut. It lacks the impact of "Barracuda" along with other material off its same side. "Little Queen" is the second longest song (5:10) so be careful if time starts running out.

A unique and provocative recording can be heard on "Treat Me Well" also on side two. It sound as if Heart recorded this one in the streets, literally. A sensational use of recording techniques.

Nancy's acoustic guitar is very clear and very listenable.

"Cry To Me" and "Go On Cry" are the last two creations on "Little Queen." And by the time you're done with this album you'll undoubtedly know it by heart, or is it Heart.

For those members not mentioned above, Heart is: Ann Wilson, the band's dark-haired lead vocalist and flautist who by her little 'ol self wrote "Kick It Out" on side one; Nancy Wilson, Ann's beautiful blond sister who plays acoustic guitar along with vocals, and wrote "Treat Me Well"; Roger Fisher, one of the founding members of Heart, who handles the lead guitar and with the help of the Wilsons cowrote most of the material on "Little Queen"; Steven Fosen, bass; and Michael Derosier, percussion.

As Long As You Love Me
Micky Thomas
MCA-2256

With a few people already establishing Georgia as the place to see Mickey Thomas falls into the category of people who have not only seen it but were born in it.

Thomas, whose "Fooled Around And Fell In Love" scored big for Elvin Bishop while Thomas was doing an intern with the Elvin Bishop band, has now launched his own career by unveiling his debut album "As Long As You Love Me." He will soon make his small town of Cario, Georgia as popular as perhaps Plains.

It's difficult to describe Thomas's style of music. My guess would be boogie-blues, if there is such a title.

His music is laid back and at times brings to light a hand'clapping ,knee-stomping style of rock and roll. As Bishop's right hand mouth, Bishop has returned the favor by performing on "Where Are We" — a sensational instrumental that mixes jazz (Chicago) style with Bishop's great slide guitar.

My favorite is not the title cut but the last song on the album, "Dance It Off." With high pitch and a high harmonic flow mixed wit a tremendous string ensemble and a rhythmic pattern similar to the Bee Gees, Thomas takes off and puts together what I believe is the smash cut off his debut album.

A Song
Neil Sedaka
Elektra 6E-102

When the name Neil Sedaka pops up so does the term nostalgia. For Sedaka is rock's past and future and somewhere between all that lies his current album, "A Song."

Between 1959 and 1963 Sedaka came and went so fast only his 25 million records sold marked his "had been here."

"A Song," like all of his material is cowritten by long-time friends Howard Greenfield and Phil Cody.

Sedaka's flair for setting the world on its heels with his easy classical upsee downsee patterns are as prevalent on "A Song" as it is on his classics "Oh, Carole," "Calender Girl," "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do," "Stairway To Heaven," and "Happy Birthday, Sweet Sixteen."

Absent from the music scene between 1963 and 1970, Sedaka once again wanted to be in the spotlight. So the 70s marked the era of a comeback, so-to-speak, that has been "Sedaka's Back," "The Hungry Years," and "Steppin Out" become gold, plus two number one hit singles, "Laughter In The Rain" and "Bad Blood." Along with one of the most sensational songs ever written, "Love Will Keep Us Together," a song Toni Tennille and Daryl Cragon liked so much they asked Sedaka if they could record it. Their careers and what happened to that song are legend.

All in all Neil Sedaka has written 75 top-10 records not counting "A Song," which, by a month from now, will have taken on a new number one status.

"A Song" is a lively classical piece.

"You Never Done It Like That" has a quick and snappy tune that almost tells you Sedaka is smiling.

"The Leaving Game" sounds almost like a follow up to "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do" — not the words just the rhythmic pattern.

When listening to "A Song" you'll probably start to wonder why he title this album like he did. And by the time you hear "Amarillo" you'll probably want to change the title to "Amarillo."

One needs to go no further to determine that "Amarillo," a happy song about Amarillo, Texas is the next single hit for Sedaka. It displays all his talents including his biggest one, smiling. And this song seems to bring that out clearly.

The next song, "A Lone At Last," seems to be a personal account of the ideal evening with the ideal song — just right for falling in love. It features sensational use of words and background harmonies.

On side two you'll find my favorite, a saucy disco beat titled "Hot And Sultry Nights." It's a fanfare that makes you want to run wild through Fifth Avenue, stroll through all the fine stores, and then settle down to a very romantic evening at your local disco. At times Sergo Mendes' musical patterns can be heard. With Sedaka behind it, what more could you ask for in a disco song.

In general the song puts you in the seat of your favorite stutz and takes ott.

I Z I T S O
Cat Stevens
(SP-4702)

We have now arrived at one of the most sophisticated albums so far this year, Cat Stevens' "IZITSO".

This album is so sophisticated that halt the instruments used may sound like rare, diseases or foreign countries. Have you ever had a bouzouki or been to Yamaha E5AR organ. Wheather the instruments sound familiar or not the album is one of the best so far this year and in my opinion one of the best in a high-classical catagory in rock history.

Before you sit down to listen to side one or side two, you had better look at the back cover in order to find side one or tow, they're not listed on the album itself.

IZITSO incorporates just about everything: Polymoog, piano, celeste, ARP flutes, glockenspiel, acoustic guitar, and others.

It's difficult to determine just which of the 10 songs are worthy of chart success. My guess would be all of them. However there are a couple songs that do stand out as sensational tunes, those being "Life" and the already hit single "Old Schoolyard."

Other than "Child For A Day," which was written by David Gordon, Cat Stevens designed both lyricsa and music throughout his current album.

"Old Schoolyard," like most of the songs, is written in fanfare style, a style that seems to have been incorporated by Stevens.

"Life" opens with chimes (actually Yamaha E5AR Organ, electric piano and glockenspiel).

"Kypros" is an instrumental that features Stevens on the Grand Piano, percussion loop, Fender Rhodes Piano, ARP Synthesizer, Polymoog, GXI, E5AR and bouzouli.

"Kypros" is a solo performance that is truly one of Steven's best.

"To Be A Star" could be interpreted as a male's answer to Janis Ian's "Only At Seventeen," — "I Never wanted to be la-de-da, go to parties 'avec le bourgeois', I only wanted to sing my song well."

In general the song deals with disgust of success at 17.

The album in general is one of the best production jobs I've ever seen and is produced by Stevens and Dave Kershebaum.

The album cover itself is sensationally done and so is the sleeve. No matter what your fancies, "IZITSO" is bound to become a collectable.

SCOTLAND'S FINEST — The Bay City Rollers (from left) Derek Longmuir, Les McKeown, Pat McGlynn, Woody Wood and Eric Faulkner will have the tremendous task of keeping their entourage of fans from burying them alive May 3 when Scotland's finest will perform at the Anaheim Convention Center. The Rollers are normally greeted in the same fashion as the Beatles were in the early '60s.

Gun show set in June at fairgrounds

Don Bullock has set two June sessions of his popular California Gun & Collector's Show at Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona.

June 11-12 is the first playdate and June 25-26 is the second. On both occasions the show will occupy Building 3-A, near the main entrance of the grounds at White Avenue and McKinley Street in Pomona.

Scheduling of the same show only two weeks apart is an unusual move, but fully justified, according to producer Bullock.

"The interest in gun collecting, as well as in all types of antique martial memorabilia, continues to rise," declared Bullock. He pointed out that there are gun shows every few weeks in various Southland areas, and ardent weapons hobbists, in their quest to better their collections, could easily spend every weekend attending such events.

Admission is charged but, parking is free. Show hours both days are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

GALLERY COMEDY — Tyler Learned of Ontario and Pam Vander Heyden (the tiger) of Upland rehearse for the musical-comedy "The Apple Tree' playing 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays at the Gallery Theatre, 126 E. C St., Ontario. For tickets call (714) 982-5357.

State camp reservations filling fast

SACRAMENTO — All state park units that are usually open this time of year are expected to be in operation during the Memorial Day weekend, State Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhodes said today, and normal or near-normal service to visitors will be offered by most state parks, beaches, and recreation areas.

Reservations for state park campsites during the Memorial Day weekend are filling fast, Rhodes noted. Many campgrounds are already fully reserved, including most campgrounds in the southern and central coastal areas plus Sugar Pine Point and Grover Hot Springs State Parks near Lake Tahoe and Brannan Island State Recreation Area in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta.

People who wish to camp out during the holiday period are urged to consider the many campgrounds run by other government agencies and private individuals. Many campers use other campgrounds at night and enjoy the state parks during the day.

Most state park campgrounds are on the statewide computereized reservation system operated by Ticketron, with reservations available as early as 30 days in advance or as late as Saturday for any nights beginning Friday of the following week. However, the campground at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin County and the Bodega Dunes campground at Sonoma Coast State Beach in Sonoma County have been taken off the reservation system because of water supply shortages.

Boat launching service is diminished at Folsom Lake and Lake Oroville State Recreation Areas.

At Folsom Lake, east of Sacramento, the only launch ramp remaining in operation at the main lake is a temporary ramp at the marina at Brown's Ravine, where concessionaire Norm Christenselo also is providing four docks with 175 slips and other limited services. All permanent boat ramps at Folsom Lake have been above the water line since last Labor Day. Boats can also be launched from the construction road at Beals Point. Other temporary ramps at Folsom Lake are planned for completion in early summer.

Boat launching continues normal at Lake Natoma, the other lake at Folsom Lake State Recreation Area, between Folsom and Nimbus Dams, where the water level remains nearly constant regardless of the level of Folsom Lake.

At Lake Oroville, 70 miles north of Sacramento, the last permanent launch ramp, at the Spillway area, is now above the water line. A temporary launch ramp installed at Foreman Creek on the east side of the lake has one lane for trailered boats and one lane for car-top boats. The concessioner at Bidwell Canyon has installed one ramp with one lane for small boats. All boat-in campsites have been taken off the reservation system because the low lake level makes the sites difficult to reach.

All services remain normal at Thermalito Forebay, below Oroville Dam. The water level there remains nearly constant regardless of the level of Lake Oroville. The 400-acre North Forebay is for swimming, fishing, and nonpowered boats only; the 400-acre South Forebay takes all kinds of boats.

Water shortages are resulting in inconveniences at a few state park units.

At the Bodega Dunes campground in Sonoma Coast State Beach, Sonoma County, chemical toilets have replaced flush toilets, and the only water available, for drinking and cooking, is hauled in by tank truck and dispensed from one central location. Chemical toilets are also now in use at Mount Diablo State Park in Contra Costa County and at Butano State park in San Mateo County.

Showers have been shut off at the beach at Seacliff State Beach in Santa Cruz County and at Half-Moon Bay State Beach in San Mateo County. Cold showers only are available at the Seacliff State Beach campground and at Morro Bay State Beach in San Luis Obispo County. Showers are limited to certain times of the day at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin County and at Calaveras Big Trees State Park in Calaveras County.

Garden Tips

Planters are busy

Experienced gardeners are busy setting in gardens full of perennial flowers — the plants that survive the winters to bloom again year after year. Those new to gardening should be doing likewise for perennials are easy - to - grow, with suitable varieties for every garden regardless of soil and climatic variation.

Among the most popular perennials are the Delphiniums. Plant the clumps early in the season for the best performance. Big clumps of Pacific Hybrids will give you two — or even three — periods of bloom this year. These tall growing perennials should be staked for support and used in flower borders as a colorful backdrop for lower growing annuals and perennials. The flower spikes bear shades of purple, light and dark blue, lavender and white.

The reliable Shasta Daisy, another perennial, has come a long way since Luther Burbank first developed it. The Shasta Daisy blooms freely without a hint of pest problems and is one of the best flowers for cutting.

Can be complicated or simple

Flower arranging art

Some folks can turn simple pleasures and hobbies into art forms, and flower arranging is no exception. Arranging flowers can be a very complicated process with precise rules to follow or as simple as a bunch of zinnias in a mason jar. Please don't doubt that the bunch of zinnias can be as aesthetically pleasing and certainly a lot easier.

Whether you're arranging a dozen red roses in a silver vase or a posy of spring flowers from the garden, the basic pyramidal - shaped form is always pleasing and not difficult to accomplish. Choose tall delicate flowers for the top of the pyramid. Then, place the others around them in decreasing heights. The larger headed blossoms will usually look best nearer the bottom of the arrangement. Be sure to use enough flowers that they will help hold each other up. A flower stem holder or styrafoam block also will serve to keep flowers in place. If you're feeling adventurous, add some greenery to the bouquet. Ferns always are lovely with any flower, but most greenery will do as long as the leaves don't compete with the flowers!

A quick way to add variety to your arrangements is to be creaive in choosing your containers. Just having a tall one and a short one lends flowers two different looks. There's almost no end to the kinds of containers to use. Large or small, (a few spring flowers in a tiny cordial glass is lovely) broad or narrow, the selection is limitless. Of course, crystal is beautiful, but in its own way so is a can hidden in a woven basket. Vases can be any compatible color to your flowers. It's also very easy to use spray paint to convert an ugly "piece of junk" into a charming flower holder.

But even if in the end your best efforts can't seem to please your critical eye, never fear! — 90 per cent of the beauty in an arrangement comes from the lovely flowers themselves!

Fruit trees for design

Many gardeners think of peaches, cherries and plums as orchard trees placed in the side yard for their fruit only. Look again if your thinking follows along those lines.

Some fruit trees are grown strictly for their ornamental value at blossom time but others produce abundant flowers and fruit as well.

Flowering fruiting peach varieties include Double Delight, a large pale pink double flowered variety which bears early to midseason freestone fruit. Double Delight develops into a medium size tree. Daily News' Three-Star and Four-Star varieties are also duel purpose peaches. Three-Star has dark double blooms and yellow-fleshed freestones. Four-Star has salmon-pink blooms and highly - colored deep red, white fleshed freestone peaches.

The smaller varieties of flowering cherries have long been favorites in oriental gardens. Varieties such as Double and Single Weeping Cherries and the Sieboldii grow to a petite but showy 10-12 feet tall.

MEATLOAF TURNOVER — Turn over a new loaf for spring with meatloaf turnover, which is fun to make, economical and easy. A velvety smooth tomato-mushroom sauce adds the final touch to this juicy turnover, which holds a layer of melted cheese and croutons for a pleasing crunch.

Two novel recipes

Create economical dish

Ground beef is versatile but can it be a turnover, too? Yes, it can in this novel recipe created in test kitchens in Rochester, N.Y. Meatloaf Turnover is fun to make, economical and easy. Inside the juicy turnover is a layer of melted cheese and croutons for a pleasing crunch. The final touch is a velvety smooth tomato - mushroom sauce that's easily made with an envelope of mushroom gravy and tomato sauce.

A second innovative idea for using ground beef is Hungarian Beef Roll. It's really eye - catching and delicious! You brown the ground beef mixture, spread it on pastry, then roll it up jelly roll fashion and bake. Serve with a well-seasoned gravy quickly fashioned from an envelope of brown gravy mix.

Accompany either of these two main dish ideas with mashed potatoes, green beans, a tossed salad, lemon chiffon cake and coffee, tea or milk.

Meatloaf Turnover

1 egg
1 can (8-oz.) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon salt
1 pound ground beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
5 slices process American cheese, cut in half diagonally
1 cup seasoned croutons or stuffing mix
1 envelope (¾-oz.) mushroom gravy mix
1¼ cups water

Lightly beat together egg, ½ cup of the tomato sauce and salt. Add ground beef and bread crumbs; mix lightly. Pat out to an 11-inch circle on waxed paper. Arrange three slices of cheese over half of meatloaf surface and sprinkle with croutons. Fold over to make turnover shape. Place in shallow baking pan by lifting waxed paper and inverting onto pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Arrange remaining cheese on top of meatloaf. Bake 5 minutes longer. Combine contents of gravy mix envelope, water and remaining ½ cup tomato sauce in small saucepan; heat to boiling, stirring occasionally. Cut meatloaf into wedges and serve with tomato sauce. 5 to 6 servings.

Hungarian Beef Roll

½ pound ground beef
1 can (2 or 3-oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
¼ cup dairy sour cream
3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
Pastry for one crust pie
1 envelope (¾-oz.) brown gravy mix

Brown beef with mushrooms in skillet, stirring to crumble beef; pour off excess fat. Stir in sour cream, 2 tablespoons of the pimiento, onion and salt. Roll out pastry on floured surface to 10 x 16-inch rectangle; spread with beef mixture. Roll up, jelly roll style. Place, seam-side down, on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, until golden brown. Prepare gravy following directions on envelope; stir in remaining 1 tablespoon pimiento. Serve over beef roll. 4 to 5 servings.

'MR. FIT' for health

About two years ago a new program was set up under the auspices of the National Heart and Lung Institute of the National Institute of Health.

The program is called MR. FIT, the initials standing for Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial.

The idea was simple. About 80 per cent of heart attacks seem to occur in men having one or more of the following three risk factors heavy cigarette smoking, high blood pressure and elevated blood cholesterol. If a research team could find some of these men and intervene — change their habits — perhaps the men could avoid such a high rate of heart attacks.

Antiques are 'in'

"Many old-house owners are spending thousands of dollars restoring their homes...and then spoiling the results with the wrong lighting fixtures."

So asserts Carolyn Flaherty, Decorative Arts Editor of The Old-House Journal.

To help the old-house owner select fixtures that are most appropriate for his or her home, The Old-House Journal has just published a 4-page brochure that outlines the types of lighting devices used in bygone days.

Lighting in an old house is critical for two reasons.

First, the direction and intensity of light sets the atmosphere for the entire interior.

Second, lighting fixtures themselves are an important decorative element and can greatly add — or detract — from the overall appearance of the house.

Old houses originally had warmer, softer light...coming from candles, oil lamps or gas fixtures.

And lighting levels were generally lower than today's brightly lit interiors.

Tasteful period lighting does not require spending a fortune on expensive antiques, emphasizes Flaherty.

Rather, unobtrusive contemporary fixtures can be used to provide basic lighting levels. And reproductions can be used in high-visibility areas to help reinforce the period tone of the house.

The trick is in knowing what kind of fixture to get.

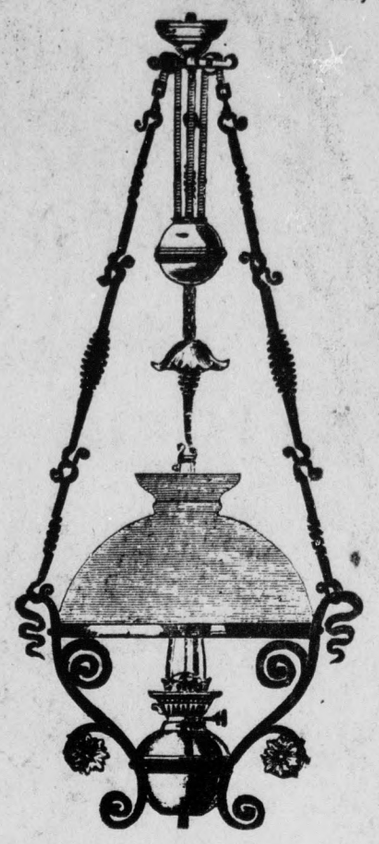

Old is not enough.

For example, a crude wrought iron chandelier would look like an orphan in an elegant Victorian parlor.

Free single copies of "Guide To Lighting The Old House" are available by writing to: The Old-House Journal, Dept. 60, 199 Berkeley Place, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11217.

BRONZE LAMPS — Old lamps like this are highly popular now and fit right into the old homes which individuals are buying and repairing to bring out the hidden beauty. Generally, the lamps are bronze with a colored globe covering the chimney.

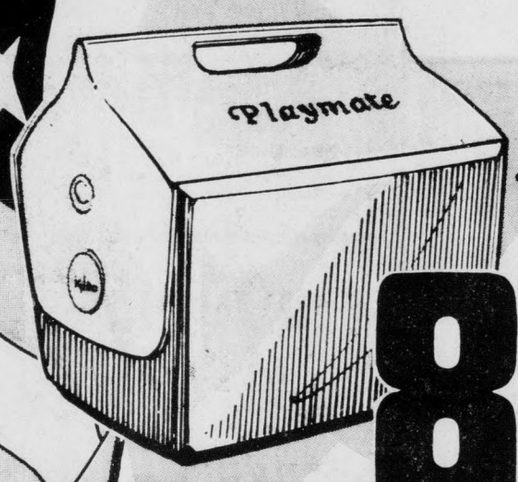

GEMS — Hanging oil or kerosene lamps are pure gems. Once found, such a lamp fits into both the antique - filled home and the more modern dwelling. The brass work is complemented by a colorful shade over the chimney.

Use sun for energy

By DALE McPHETRIDGE,
President,
Ontario-Upland-Chino
Board of Realtors

The urgent need to develop alternative sources of energy in this country was brought home to most Americans this past winter. Shortages of natural gas, home heating oil and other fuels forced drastic conservation measures in many states. Schools and factories closed. Where fuel was available, home owners found themselves faced with skyrocketing heating bills.

Unfortunately, it is unlikely that heating bills will ever go down. As domestic fuel sources are depleted, importation of foreign oil must increase to keep pace with demand. Foreign oil prices have risen steadily and there is no reason to expect these price increases to moderate.

One of the most frequently discussed alternate energy sources is the sun. Sitting out in space, some 93,000,000 miles distant, the sun envelopes the earth with energy roughly equal to 232 trillion horsepower per minute or approximately 122 quintillion (122 with 18 zeros after it) horsepower per year.

To place the magnitude of this source of energy in perspective, the United States consumed energy equivalent to 30 trillion horsepower in all of 1973. That's less than ¼,000,000th of the sun's yearly output. Better yet, all this energy is free.

The technological challenge is harnessing all this energy. Although abundant almost beyond belief, solar energy has some drawbacks. First, much of the gigantic outpouring of solar energy is absorbed in the atmosphere before it ever reaches the ground.

Second, the sun is not a constant source of energy. Such factors as cloud formations, high humidity, and air pollution interrupt the transmission of solar energy to the earth. To be useful, solar energy, which is widely dispersed, must be collected.

In spite of obstacles, the basic technology required to take advantage of solar energy in some ways has been developed. In fact, solar energy has been used for at least 1,000 years. Solar water heaters are not uncommon in such countries as Israel, Japan and the U.S.S.R. Solar home heating is just coming into its own and solar air conditioning is just around the corner. Conversion of solar energy to electrical energy, now very expensive, is still in the development stages.

Commercial development of solar systems is a relatively recent event because they were not economically feasible in the past. Cheap fossil fuels were available then, stunting growth in the solar energy industry. However, as fossil fuels become more expensive and scarce and as mass production of solar equipment gets underway, it is certain solar-energized homes will begin appearing.

When will this be? Depending on to whom you are talking, solar energy is not just a pipe dream. By 1985, one source says, the number of new homes equipped with solar heating will approach 10 per cent of the number built each year. By 2020 that figure is expected to reach 85 per cent.

Make headaches more bearable

Headaches are no fun, but there are ways to make them more bearable and to even prevent them, according to Dr. David R. Coddon, director of the Headache Clinic at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City.

Interviewed in the current issue of Redbook's Be Beautiful, Dr. Coddon says that the most common type of headache is the "vascular - flow" headache, which is caused by changes in the blood flow to the head. It can result from too much sleep, too little sleep, improper diet, alcohol and physical exertion.

Big new crop of catfish begins hatchery's season

The Department of Fish and Game is happy to announce the birth today of 99,452 channel catfish — give or take a few.

And they all have whiskers.

Bet you non - biologists didn't know that. But the fact is confirmed by Wayne Parker, hatchery manager for the Department of Fish and Game's Imperial Valley Warmwater Hatchery, where channel catfish are raised for stocking in California waters.

"You can look at the little rascals with a microscope and see tiny whiskers," said Parker, noting that there are about 1,200 catfish to the ounce at this stage of their life.

Parker explained that so-called catfish whiskers are actually sensory organs more properly called barbels. They are used for both the sense of touch and the sense of smell.

The young catfish hatched today are the first of about one and a half million scheduled to be raised this year at the DFG hatchery bordering the Salton Sea in Imperial County.

Of the total, about 500,000 fry are scheduled for shipment to a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service hatchery in Uvalde, Texas, to replace catfish lost by disease.

About 100,000 are scheduled for shipment to Oregon, and 200,000 fingerlings will be planted in Northern California. The remaining fish will be planted in Southern California.

Additionally, the hatchery now has about 200,000 yearling catfish averaging two or three to the pound scheduled for planting by mid-June in Southern California waters.

Parker said the fry now being hatched will be kept in hatchery tanks for about a week, then transferred to ponds. When ready for planting this fall, they will go about six to the pound.

The Imperial Valley Warmwater Hatchery is reached by taking Highway 111 south along the eastern edge of the Salton Sea. It is located about seven miles north of Niland.

ORDINANCE NO. 1141
URGENCY ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF UPLAND RESTRICTING THE ISSUANCE OF BUILDING PERMITS AND AUTHORIZING THE FURTHER RESTRICTION OF BUILDING PERMITS BY RESOLUTION

The City Council of the City of Upland does hereby ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. It is hereby found and determined by the City Council that the urgency established by the City Council's last urgency ordinance still exists and that the California Regional Water Quality Control Board of the Santa Ana Region on April 22, 1977, issued its Order No. 77-122 finding that the Regional Plant No. 1, which receives effluent from the City of Upland and other surrounding communities, exceeded the effluent limitations in several respects as set forth more particularly in Finding No. 2 of the Order, and that any increase in the discharge of domestic waste will increase the violation or likelihood of violation of waste discharge requirements and further unreasonably impair water quality of the effluent.

SECTION 2. It has further been determined by this City Council that it is imperative to retain the balance of the quantity of effluent and its quality at said Regional Plant No 1, that the communities contriubting to that effluent establish a regional plan allocating sewage flow increases from the contributors over a period of years.

The Council further finds that representatives of the agencies contributing effluent to Regional Plant No. 1 have, after careful study, developed a plan for allocating sewage flow increases among contributing agencies for the period commencing on the adoption of this plan and ending June 30, 1978. Said plan having been submitted to the Council and is now on file with the City Clerk.

SECTION 3. It is further determined by the City Council that the only reasonably feasible plan to control the sewage effluent from this City and other communities using the plant is that the Chino Basin Municipal Water District shall issue a letter certifying sewage capacity as a prerequisite to the issuance of building permits for the improvement generating the said effluent to the end that the plant will not be receiving sewage flows which cannot be processed to satisfy the Santa Ana Water Quality Control Board requirements and that maximum sewage flows will be determined from time to time by resolution of the City Council.

SECTION 4. Section 8000.5 of the Upland Municipal Code is hereby added to read as follows:

Section 8000.5 - Restrictions on Issuing New Building Permits

Notwithstanding any provision in this Code to the contrary, the City Council of the City of Upland is hereby authorized to regulate and restrict the issuance of building permits for new construction by resolution adopted from time to time by this Council. Said resolution shall specify the number, time of issuance, uses and other conditions required for the purpose of regulating and limiting the flow of effluent from this City, together with any reasonable exemptions and conditions. This authorization shall continue during the emergency period in which the increase in the City's effluent must be controlled and the emergency period shall continue until June 30, 1978, unless otherwise extended by the City Council.

SECTION 5. This Ordinance is urgently required and urgently necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety and general welfare. More specifically, without this Ordinance there is an immediate danger of issuing building permits which would give rise in the future to effluent flows which could not be treated adequately to satisfy the standards of the Water Quality Control Board. Such flow further is likely to give rise to not only an injunction, but civil and monetary remedies against the City.

SECTION 6. The Mayor shall sign this Ordinance and the City Clerk shall attest to the same and this Ordinance shall be effective immediately as an urgency ordinance and the City Clerk shall cause the same to be published within fifteen (15) days after its passage at least once in the Upland News.

ORDINANCE NO. 1136
URGENCY ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF UPLAND RESTRICTING THE ISSUANCE OF BUILDING PERMITS

The City Council of the City of Upland does hereby ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. It is hereby found and determined by the City Council of the City of Upland that as a result of a hearing held by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board of the Santa Ana Region on April 22, 1977, the said Board, in its Order No. 77-122, found that Regional Plant No. 1 receiving the effluent from the City of Upland and other communities exceeded the effluent limitations in several respects as set forth more particularly in finding No. 2 of said Order and that any increase in the discharge of domestic waste will increase the violation or likelihood of violation of waste discharge requirements and further unreasonably impair receiving water quality.

That at said hearing the City did commit itself through its authorized representative to require from the Chino Basin Municipal Water District a letter certifying sewage capacity as a prerequisite to the issuance of building permits for the improvement generating said effluent to the end that the plant will not be receiving sewage flows which cannot be processed to satisfy the Santa Ana Water Quality Control Board requirements and that maximum sewage flows will be determined from time to time by resolution of the City Council.

SECTION 2. The City Council does hereby direct that no building permits for residential construction, except for single family residential construction on any land division created by any parcel map, or any subdivision map recorded prior to January 1, 1976, shall be issued by the City of Upland during the period from May 3rd to May 17th of 1977, without a letter from the Chino Basin Municipal Water District certifying available sewage capacity for the effluent to be generated by the improvement to be constructed in pursuance to the building permit requested to be issued. The Council may terminate the restriction mentioned herein upon finding that the urgency no longer exists.

SECTION 3. This ordinance is urgently required and urgently necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety and general welfare. More specifically, without this ordinance there is an immediate danger of issuing building permits which would give rise in the future to effluent flows which could not be treated adequately to satisfy the standards of the Water Quality Control Board. Such flow further is likely to give rise to not only injunction, but civil and monetary remedies against the City.

SECTION 4. The Mayor shall sign this ordinance and the City Clerk shall attest to the same and this ordinance shall be effective immediately as an urgency ordinance and the City Clerk shall cause the same to be published within fifteen (15) days after its passage, at least once in the Upland News.

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, has found that the public interest and welfare will be served by the granting of a concession to a responsible party for operation of a Snack Bar, Boat Rental and Pavilion Concession at Frank G. Bonelli Regional County Park, as shown on Exhibit "A;"

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as follows:

1. That it is the intention of the County of Los Angeles Facilities Department, on the 1st day of June, 1977, prior to 5:00 p.m., in its office at 550 S. Vermont Ave., 10th Floor, Los Angeles, California 90020, to receive proposals for a concession agreement for the operation of a Snack Bar, Boat Rental, and Pavilion Concession at Frank G. Bonelli Regional County Park. The purpose of this Resolution and Notice of Intention is not to submit formal bids, but to solicit proposals to operate the facilities described above.

2. The term of the concession agreement will be for a period of five (5) years commencing within 30 days of its award by the Board of Supervisors.

3. Selection of the best responsible proposal will be based upon the following criteria:

a) Proposer's experience in operating the facilities as required by County.

b) The quality and nature of the equipment and programs to be provided by the proposer.

c) The percentage of gross revenue and minimum annual rental to be paid to the County.

d) The financial responsibility of the proposer.

4. The concession shall be operated for the rental of powered and non-powered boats and for the sale of bait and tackle, food and miscellaneous concession stand items at Frank G. Bonelli Regional County Park.

5. The County shall provide the premises and equipment as shown on Exhibits "A" and "B" to the sample Concession Agreement provided as part of the proposal package. All additional equipment necessary for the satisfactory operation of the Snack Bar, Boat Rental Concession and all necessary supplies will be furnished by Concessionaire.

6. Concessionaire and his agents or employees shall at all times comply with and abide by all rules and regulations heretofore adopted or that may hereafter be adopted by the Board of Supervisors of said County and/or Directors of the Facilities Department and the Department of Parks and Recreation.

7. The proposal package will be on file in the offices of the Facilities Department, 550 S. Vermont Ave., 10th Floor, Los Angeles, California 90020, and will be made available to any and all prospective proposers prior to the date set by the Board of Supervisors for the opening of the proposals. The final concession agreement will contain substantially the same provisions as the sample concession agreement. Said proposal form and concession agreement contain in detail all of the terms and conditions pertaining to the operation of the concession and all proposers shall be deemed to have notice, constructive or otherwise, of said terms and conditions.

8. Proposers must satisfy themselves by personal examination of the location of the concession and by such other means as they may prefer as to the conditions and requirements of the operation of the concession.

9. QUALIFICATIONS OF PROPOSERS

1) Must have a minimum of two years' experience within the last ten years in the operation of snack bar and/or bait and tackle services and/or operation of a boat rental facility.

b) Must possess the necessary line of credit to equip and operate the concession.

c) Must possess a competent past record of employment in the food and/or bait and tackle service and/or rental boat business or a related field as verified and supported by references, letters and other necessary evidence from all employers.

d) In the event a corporation is bidding to operate the concession, said corporation must verify that the person employed as manager of the operation shall meet the above-listed qualifications.

10) Each proposer shall furnish the following information with his sealed proposal:

Financial Statement - A full and detailed presentation of proposer's assets, liabilities and net worth.

General Business Statement - A statement of all of the important business activities of proposer's major business life, emphasizing proposer's experience in the operation of food and bait-and-tackle service and the rental boat business. It is most important that this statement be up to the last date of such enterprise.

Business References - A minimum of five (5) business references giving names, addresses and telephone numbers in each instance.

Personal References - A minimum of five (5) personal references giving names, addresses and telephone numbers in each instance.

Credit References - A minimum of five (5) credit or financial references giving names, addresses and telephone numbers in each instance.

Equipment and Inventory - A program of equipment and inventory to be furnished by Concessionaire with the cost of furnishing said program.

Estimated Gross Receipts - An estimate of annual gross receipts and percentage breakdown of all operating costs.

11. The filing of such statements shall constitute permission by the proposer for the County to check, verify and have certified all information contained in such statements. If the County desires, additional information may be requested from the proposer. Failure to comply with any such request may disqualify any proposer from further consideration.

12. Sealed proposals must be filed in the office of the Facilities Department of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, 550 S. Vermont Ave., 10th Floor, Los Angeles, California 90020, prior to 5:00 p.m. on the 1st day of June, 1977. The final acceptance of any proposal may be made at any meeting of the County Board of Supervisors within sixty (60) days after receipt of said proposals as recommended by the Director of Facilities or within such longer period as may be deemed reasonable by said Director.

13. No oral proposals will be considered by the Board of Supervisors. The County reserves the right to negotiate with one or more proposers.

14. The County Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any and all proposals.

15. Each proposal must be accompanied by a Cashier's Check or a check certified by a responsible bank in the County of Los Angeles and payable to said County in the amount of $2,000 or by a satisfacotry surety bond for said amount as a guarantee proposer will execute the Concession Agreement if same is awarded to such proposer. This guarantee will be applied toward, but shall not be considered a limitation upon, any damage which may be sustained by the County if proposer fails to so comply.

The foregoing Resolution was duly and regularly adopted by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 3rd day of May, 1977.

Perfected in '30s

Freezing food recent history

The year-long availability of nearly every type of food is a luxury most of today's cooks take for granted.

Today's quick - freezing capabilities can preserve most any type of food for months, or even for years, while maintaining its flavor and nutrients.

Large - scale freezing of food, however, is only a relatively recent method of food preservation.

It was not until the 1930s that freezing techniques were perfected and frozen foods found spreading distribution.

Before then, people had to find other ways to preserve and extend their food supply.

Drying foods in the sun was probably one of the earliest methods commonly used by primitive man. However, foods preserved in this manner often rotted before they could be thoroughly dried, and dried foods lack the original texture and tatse of the fresh version.

After the discovery of fire, man was able to dry foods faster and learned to smoke meats over the open fire. Although this method also altered the taste of the meat, man learned to like the smokey flavor, and several types of meat, including bacon and ham, are still smoked, despite advances in food preservation.

Man also learned that salt, combined with herbs and spices, would preserve the flavor meats. Again, man developed a taste for the altered flavor, and cotninues to enjoy such products as corned beef and pickled pigs feet for their spicy, salty taste.

Canning, however, was the first major step toward modern food preservation. In 1787, a candymaker named Nicholas Appert discovered that precooked food could be preserved by sealing it in glass bottles and heating it in boiling water.

Although Appert's method quickly spread throughout Europe, it took until 1820 for commercial canning to become a reality. In 1820 an English immigrant named William Underwood established the first canning plant in Boston.

In 1825, the development of the first tin-plated metal container for canning expanded and revolutionized industry.

However, canned foods still often lacked the fresh taste and texture of their fresh counterparts.

The first major commercial use of freezing for transporting food long distances took place in 1882 when the first shipment of frozen sheepmeat was sent from New Zealand to London, 12,000 miles away. The voyage took 98 days and all but one of the sheep and lamb carcases arrived in excellent condition in what the Times of London described "as a feat which must have a place in commercial — indeed in political — annals."

For almost 100 years, New Zealand, as a major exporter of meat to distant markets, has been a world leader in advancing the techniques and technology for procesing and transporting frozen meat.

Through frozen food, consumers now can have a year-long supply of fresh, seasonal foods. Freezing also allows food processors to ship foods to area where, because of spoilage problems, they were once unavailable.

Today, freezing makes it possible for cooks to serve lamb and many other seasonal treats, when ever they please — with little regard for the season.

'Plate waste' in schools avoided

The tacos, hot dogs, hamburgers and pizza now offered routinely in California's school cafeterias didn't just appear on the menu through the whim of the school's chef.

Extensive studies prove that these and other nutritious foods popular with children and teenagers, are eaten, not wasted, according to the California School Food Service Association (CSFSA).

"Plate waste," the food left on a child's plate at the end of a meal, is a source of concern to nutritionists as well as parents. Nutrition and money are lost when children won't eat.

In an effort to keep plate waste to a minimum, CSFSA dietitians have established various techniques, included recognizing a particular food's popularity, to encourage proper eating habits.

There is nothing wrong with a hamburger or taco, for example, if it is part of a well balanced meal that includes selections from each of the Four Food Groups — milk, meats, vegetables and fruits, breads and cereals. The addition of a glass of milk would balance either meal if enriched bread or tortillas are used and lettuce and tomato are added to the entree.

CSFSA offers the homemaker several tips for reducing plate waste in the home and ensuring proper nutrition.

Variety in menus is one area that should be considered. Menus should be checked to make sure a certain food is not served so often that the child becomes tired of it.

Care should also be taken in preparing foods. When using a recipe, follow directions and use accurate measurements to insure tasty results.

When cooking be sure to keep food at proper temperature. Too high a cooking temperature can result in tasteless and dried out foods and plate waste.

Always serve food at the proper temperature for that food. Hot foods should be hot and cold foods should be cold or their appeal to children, as well as adults, is severely diminished.

Introducing new foods to a child is another area where plate waste occurs. Serving a sample size of a new food is a good way to let children taste new products and not leave large amounts of food uneaten.

The size of the serving is also important. A child's age, weight and activity must be considered when serving food portions. When in doubt in this area it is better to serve small portions, letting the child request a second serving if he desires.

A relaxed atmosphere and enough time in which to eat are also important when discouraging plate waste. For proper nutrition and digestion, children, as well as adults, need sufficient time to relax and enjoy meals.

Studies prove that if school lunch lines are too long or too noisy, many students do not consider it worthwhile to stand in line, wolf down a meal and race back to class. They'll settle for a candy bar and a few minutes of relaxation.

School lunch personnel have also discovered that permitting students to plan their own menus is conducive to more interest in the meals and consequently less plate waste. Using the Four Food Groups as a guide, children should be allowed to plan family meals occasionally.

'Swiss' origins

Did you know that Swiss cheesemaking was introduced to America in 1850 by Adam Blumer, a native of Glarus, Switzerland? Blumer began cheesemaking as a home dairy operation, with a herd of five cows, in the Swiss colony of New Glarus, Wisconsin.

With a Mexican accent

Try Spanish mackerel

Family delight

MEXICAN ACCENT — Spanish markerel with a Mexican "accent" is enjoyed by people all over the country. Cooked with some chili powder, tomatoes and olives gives the popular fish an all new flavor. It should prove to delight all in the family.

All over the country, people enjoy the flavor of Spanish mackerel.

The fish, a close cousin to the tuna and other mackerel, is caught along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts where it is relished in its fresh form. It's becoming increasingly available frozen so no lover of Spanish mackerel is left out.

The fish develops a delectable Mexican "accent" when it is served as Veracruz-Style Spanish Mackerel, a recipe developed by the National Fishery Education Center.

The fish is extremely high in protein, low in calories and saturated fats. The Mexican offering, featuring onion, garlic, chili powder, tomatoes, and stuffed olives and another real Mexican idea, chopped green chilies. It's surely Mexican!

The entree, which is as pretty as it is tasty, is surprisingly easy and fast fixing. After cooking the onion and garlic in oil, the next step is to stir in flour, chili powder, and tomatoes. After it's thickened and the olives and chilies go in, the main course is arranged in a 2-quart baking dish.

Veracruz-Style Spanish Mackerel bakes in a moderate oven for just about half an hour. As with all fish and seafoods, its test for doneness is flaking easily when tested with a fork. Fish cooks so easily and quickly that there's no point in overcooking.

This recipe promises the star of a delicious dinner and all at moderate cost. It's a good plan for a company dinner. With a fresh green vegetable and/or a tossed salad, all that's necessary is a basket of fresh fruit for dessert. If you like serving wine, a light one will do nicely. Otherwise, a pitcher of sangria or iced tea will quench the thirst. The dinner will almost speak to the diners — with a Mexican accent.

Veracruz-Style Spanish Mackerel

2 pounds Spanish mackerel fillets, fresh or frozen
2 cups sliced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
½ cup sliced stuffed olives
1 tablespoon chopped green chilies
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt

Thaw frozen fish. Cut fillets into 6 serving portions. Cook onion and garlic in oil until tender, but not brown. Stir in flour and chili powder. Add undrained tomatoes; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in olives and chilies. Spoon half of the sauce into shallow 2-quart baking dish. Top with fish. Drizzle fish with lemon juice; sprinkle with salt and top with remaining sauce. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 6 servings.

Shopping tips for economy

With sharper buying at the supermarket, anyone can afford better tasting, high quality food in spite of today's increased prices, says home economist Lib Underwood.

"The key is to cut out the fills — those non-nutritious items that you really don't need and which make the weekly food bill mount up," she said. "By using a few proven shopping methods, the homemaker will find she has plenty of money to buy the better cuts of meat and the finer tasting national brands of canned and frozen foods that cost just a few pennies more."

Mrs. Underwood, who works for RJR Foods, Inc., probably spends more time in supermarkets than most other shoppers in the nation, since she shops for her company's test kitchens and her family of four. In order to help grocery shoppers, she offers these "tricks of the trade."

— Make a list and stick to it. If you come into a supermarket not knowing exactly what to buy, you are going to be attracted by scores of widely different products and unnecessary items.

— Never go shopping on an empty stomach. Most everything looks good when you're hungry.

— Plan a week's menu of meals before setting foot inside a supermarket. That way you can intelligently choose which foods to buy based on nutrition and your family's likes and dislikes.

— Plan meats or other main courses on menus first. "My family likes beef and I prefer grain-fed beef because of its taste and quality." Beware of beef bargains at a store you don't ordinarily use. Unusually low sale-priced beef normally turns out to be too tough to enjoy, she cautions.

— Be sure to pick up some convenience foods that can be used to prepare a quick meal on days you run short of time or have unexpected guests. Convenience foods not only save valuable time, but require less fuel and energy to prepare.

— Avoid specials on minor brand canned vegetables and fruit. The lesser brands may be lower priced, but they generally don't taste as good.

— Be careful as you scan ads for food bargains. If you drive to a store on the other side of town just because of some bargains, you will spend as much in gasoline as you might save at the cash register.

— Choose one or two nearby stores to do your regular shopping. Getting to know a few stores allows you to get through your shopping list quickly because you know just where everything is. Also, you'll know the hours when you can avoid crowds and save a long wait at the checkout counter.

— Pay close attention to what foods are in season. Sometimes it's nice to buy more of some produce that's in season and freeze what you don't use immediately for use in the off season.

Dieticians find spinach a rich nutritional food

That extra energy Popeye gets from spinach is no joke; dietitians say that spinach is exceptionally high in nutritional value. Starting in the 1920s, spinach received much publicity for its wealth of calcium and iron, along with Vitamins A and C. But research has found spinach is rich in exalic acid, which prevents the calcium from being utilized by the body.

Laetrile, human rights

By State Senator William Campbell

Senate Bill 245 would legalize the prescription, use, manufacture, and sale of laetrile in California.

The motivation behind the introduction of this bill does not lie in the belief that laetrile cures or even controls cancer.

While I, personally, have become convinced that there have been many cases where laetrile has controlled cancer growth, that is not why I am carrying this legislation.

My motivation, rather, is based on a firm belief in the principal of "freedom of choice." I do not believe that government has any business restricting the physician from using any and all safe substances in the treatment of a patient.

Moreover, who is the state to tell a cancer victim "You cannot have this harmless substance, even though you may believe it will cure you."

Certainly, these were the questions which convinced the states of Alaska, Florida, and Indiana to legalize laetrile and the questions which prompted pending legislation in more than a dozen other states.

The non-toxicity of laetrile has been clearly established. No one has ever died from an overdose of laetrile (or amygdalin, as is its generic name). However, in the United States last year there were three deaths from an overdose of table salt and several deaths caused by aspirin.

It's not the toxicity of laetrile that concerns organized medicine, however. The argument the opposition uses against the bill is the diversion it may cause from orthodox cancer treatments, e.g. chemotherapy, radiation and surgery.

My answer to that argument is twofold.

The first is that we have drafted the bill to provide for as comprehensive, informed consent procedure. The patient and the doctor must sign a form that: lists the risks and benefits of all known therapies, including laetrile and orthodox therapies; stipulates laetrile may be taken in conjunction with orthodox treatment; states the patient may discontinue laetrile therapy at any time; and encourages the patient to seek the opinion of an encologist who specializes in orthodox cancer therapies. So, the protection of the patient exists, but we allow him or her to decide what treatment they desire.

The second answer to the opposition's argument is in the form of a challenge to the survival statistics of orthodox therapies.

Why do so many people still die from cancer if these treatments are so effective?

Why haven't we seen a major reduction over the last few decades in cancer deaths?

Even with the most favorable data, more than 50 per cent of all cancer in the United States is still fatal.

More importantly though, why, given those tragic statistics, do we try to deny cancer victims control over their own bodies and their own health?

Freedom of choice means freedom from government interference in those decisions which affect us in a very personal way. Even if that decision is to get the analgesic relief and well-being from laetrile during the last few months, rather than burdening families with ruinous doctor bills from expensive therapies that cause pain and misery with little, if any, hope for survival, that decision is the right of the individual.

The greatness of this society lies in its freedoms and this freedom is no less important to our democratic way of life than any of the others we have fought so long and hard to preserve.

Campbell, a Republican, represents the 33rd state Senate District, which includes Diamond Bar, Walnut and Rowland Heights.

McVittie introduces construction legislation

State Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65) has introduced legislation which would establish uniform regulations for construction work which government agencies carry out on an in-house basis with their own employes.

The proposals are contained in Assembly Bill 1931, which is sponsored by the construction industry Force Account Council.

The council is composed of more than 50 labor and management organizations in the construction industry which have become concerned by large-scale force account abuses by government agencies.

"Force account" is a term used within the construction industry to define construction work performed by government agencies with their own employes on an internal account basis, without putting it out to bid to private contractors.

"At present, a maze of laws, ordinances, regulations, and codes govern force account work, but there is no uniformity on the amount of work that can be done, and no consistency in the procedures to be followed for putting the work out to bid," McVittie said.

"As a result, some public agencies have taken advantage of the inconsistencies in the law to undertake large construction projects that can be more economically performed by the private sector," he added.

AB 1931 separates public agencies into eight specific categories, sets specific dollar limits on their in-house construction activities, and establishes criteria for putting the work out to bid after the dollar limits have been determined.

The dollar limts covering construction work by public agencies are broken down into two categories:

—"New work," or that which involves construction, erection, or demolition of any publicly owned property or publicly operated facility, and

—"Subsequent work," or follow-up work on the original project which involves repairs, alterations, additions, improvements, or maintenance to the original construction project when it is required.

The limits are as follows:

— Counties, new work limit of $15,000, subsequent work limit of $5,000.

— Cities, $10,000 and $5,000.

— Schools, $5,000 or 300 hours of labor; and $3,500 or 100 hours of labor.

— State agencies, $15,000 and $5,000.

— State colleges, $10,000 and $5.000.

Committee oks adoption bill

Legislation allowing adopted adults and their natural parents to meet one another was approved May 10 by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

State Senator William Campbell's (R-33) SB 535 would provide a program whereby persons adopted in California, 18 years of age or older, and their natural parents can meet.

Under existing law all records and information regarding adopted children are available only upon an order of the Superior Court of California. These court orders are extremely rare so as not to invade the privacy of the parties involved.

SB 535 would not change that system. Instead, an additional mechanism whereby the adoptee and the natural parent may request to meet each other will be established. Without a request by both parties, the state Department of Health would not be authorized to take any action.

If both the natural parent and the adoptee do independently initiate a request, the department will contact both parties.

Tax aid forms being mailed

About 100,000 Los Angeles County homeowners aged 62 and older will receive their 1977 senior citizens property tax assistance claim forms in the near future, according to State Assemblyman Dave Stirling (R-64).

The Franchise Tax Board has just begun mailing applications to all persons who received refunds in 1976, as well as to those who have requested forms this year.

There are some important changes in the program this year, said Stirling, who noted the increase in the maximum household income from $10,000 to $12,000, as well as the increase in the assessed value allowance from $7,500 to $8,500 up to a total value of $34,000, should result in larger refunds this year.

Also added this year is senior citizens renter assistance in addition to the general renter's credit, which is filed with the income tax return. The Franchise Tax Board is expecting to receive 200,000 renter claims and estimates that those refunds will amount to $20 million.

The filing period for senior renters is the same as for senior homeowners — May 16 — Aug. 31, 1977. Persons reaching the age of 62 during 1976, or those who have not yet filed are reminded to obtain a 1977 claim form since they will not automatically receive them. Claim forms may be obtained at any office of the Franchise Tax Board, state Board of Equalization, or by writing to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento 95807.

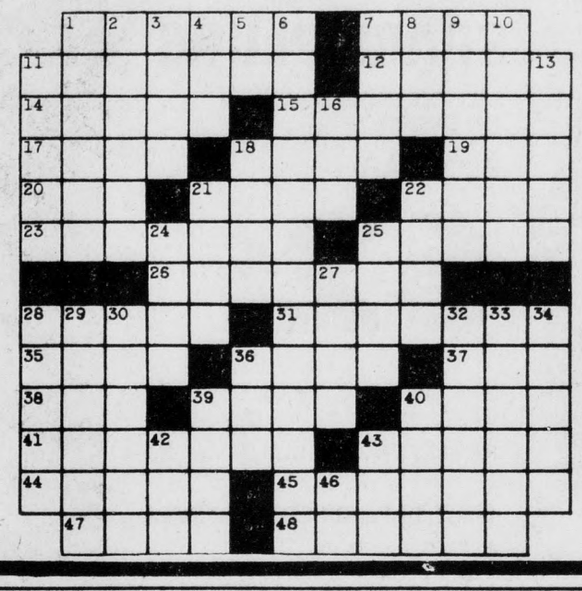

For more information call Stirling's office, (213) 945-1524 or (714) 622-2673.

SAFEGUARD AGAINST CRIME

Protect your Home and Family

To stop crime before it starts... You should:

- ☐ Double check the identity of callers you don't know.
- ☐ Install deadbolt locks on outside doors.
- ☐ Avoid dark streets at night. Stay away from doorways or alley entrances. Walk purposefully.
- ☐ See that your children know the ruses of molesters...and avoid them.
- ☐ Report suspicious strangers.
- ☐ Park at night in well lighted spots.
- ☐ Keep valuables carried in your auto out of sight.
- ☐ Lock the car when you leave it.
- ☐ Always look inside your car before you enter it.
- ☐ Stop deliveries when you leave for a trip.
- ☐ Put the door key in a safe (not obvious) spot.
- ☐ Lock the garage when the car is out.

And this is just the start.

Your police department can give you tips on preventing almost every kind of crime; tips that work. Let them help you make your home and city safe.
